

The perfect getaway

Britain is a fantastic place, not least our own patch in Dorset.

And there can be few better ways to get away – either planned or at the drop of a hat – in the UK or Europe than in a motorhome.

We had the Elddis Envy 195, which is exclusive to Dolphin Motorhomes, for the weekend and took full advantage. We headed for Padstow, Cornwall, and a touring site we'd stayed at before. It's only a four-hour drive from Dorset on a good day – with the Envy proving an easy drive – and by lunchtime we were setting up at Padstow Touring Park.

The Envy has everything you need for a comfortable stay – it sleeps four and you get two seating areas as well as a kitchen with microwave, hobs, oven, grill and fridge-freezer. The bathroom has a sink, cupboards, and a decent 'proper' shower. There's storage in abundance, too.

Electrical hook-up is easy and it wasn't long before we were set up and ready to explore Cornwall.

Padstow is a lovely little town, with fantastic restaurants – several of them owned by Rick Stein – stunning scenery and brilliant walks in every direction. The harbour is quaint and relaxed and a trip on the ferry to Rock, across the harbour, is a must-do.

And the motorhome is a great way to see somewhere like this. No worries about trying to book in to hotels and finding them full, or shelling out a fortune for a night.

Two nights at our touring park cost £50, which included electric hook-up, water and full use of the shower block.

It's nice to have your own space and facilities and comfort-wise it's a big step up from camping. The joy of taking you home with you is not to be underestimated and it's no surprise that the motorhome market is rapidly expanding.

Our trip to Padstow is just one example of what you could do – imagine being able to discover somewhere different every weekend.
